Sounds good. I'll make a note on my end. Thank you for your help.

We are required to record the original documents, so this is considered a copy. I will have to put a recorder's note on this if I'm unable to obtain the original document.

Hi Elizabeth,
We're using Docusign for all of our contracts now so that is considered an original. Does that still count as a copy?

Thank you,

Good afternoon Jessica.

I received a document in the mail to be recorded in our office. However, I noticed that this is in fact a copy and not the original. Is it possible for you to submit the original for recording? If not, I will have to put a recorder's note in the margin that it is a xerox copy and recorded as received. Please feel free to call our office if you have any questions. Thank you.
