

To Whom It May Concern:

There have been numerous trucks that have been hauling material from an unregistered pit by Jake John in Jackson County, Co. The county has also redone the road out there to have a better accessible road entering and exiting the pit. You can get out there by driving 16 miles to Jackson county road 7A to Lak john and then follow JC Road 7A around the road to the south end of the lake and continue until you see two green gates. How is it right they are using the pit without it being registered and all other pit owners have to pay royalties and sales tax on the gravel?
