Jared,

It turns out the printed version was 1"=70.42' and it was an ACAD problem. To get it to 1"=60' I had to print it on 8.5x14 paper but that way you can still use an old fashion scale on it without having to convert using a calculator.

So the attached page replaces the old Figure C, so the scale is now correct, I checked it after print it.

Regards,

Steve
