CPW also wishes to re-	vise the approved

indian grass as well for post mining land use and CPW wildlife plan.

As defined by the Minerals Rules, a Technical Revision (TR) is: "a change in the permit or application which does not have more than a minor effect upon the approved or proposed Reclamation or Environmental Protection Plan." The Division is charged with determining if the revision as submitted meets this definition. If the Division determines that the proposed revision is beyond the scope of a TR, the Division may require the submittal of a permit amendment to make the required or desired changes to the permit.

The request for a TR is not considered "filed for review" until the appropriate fee is received by the Division (as listed below by permit type). Please submit the appropriate fee with your request to expedite the review process. After the TR is submitted with the appropriate fee, the Division will determine if it is approvable within 30 days. If the Division requires additional information to approve a TR, you will be notified of specific deficiencies that will need to be addressed. If at the end of the 30 day review period there are still outstanding deficiencies, the Division must deny the TR unless the permittee requests additional time, in writing, to provide the required information.

There is no pre-defined format for the submittal of a TR; however, it is up to the permittee to provide sufficient information to the Division to approve the TR request, including updated mining and reclamation plan maps that accurately depict the changes proposed in the requested TR.

Hi Kevin,

It looks like we officially received Technical Revision No. 7 (TR-7) for Midwestern Farms, M-1993-059 on 3/17/20.

So now we just need the $216 fee to begin processing the TR.

Despite our current guarantine conditions, I believe April is still available to discuss how to get this fee submitted via ITI.

I'm copying her on this email so she knows we received the TR.

Thanks,

Amy Eschberger Environmental Protection Specialist
