Subject: April 2022 Colorado Wastewater Discharge Monitoring Reports

Permit No. CO-0032115

To Whom It May Concern:

Outfall 001 discharged in response to spring snowmelt occurring in early April. Primary effluent limitations were exceeded at this outfall during April sampling. These exceedances were in direct response to snowmelt and or precipitation events resulting in snowfall on the site. Samples taken April 5, 2022 showed an exceedance of TSS and iron at outfall 001 due to melting snow and precipitation that occurred in late March. High daytime temperatures over April 2nd through the 3rd melted snow higher in the watershed for outfall 001. Rainfall totaling 0.01 inches and a trace of snow was recorded at the Craig4SW NOAA rain gauge at the mine office on the morning of the 5th. This gauge is within a 1/4 mile of outfall 001. High winds the day of sampling had also created unsettled particles in the outfalls pond and discharge. The alternate limitations for Settleable Solids, applicable in the event of discharge caused by precipitation (or snowmelt) less than or equal to the 10-year, 24-hour precipitation event, was met at all outfalls.

The alternative limits should be applied to this exceedance event; Settleable Solids were recorded at 0.39 mL/H during sampling. These are compliant with the alternative limits in the discharge permit.

Trapper is required to maintain sediment levels in ponds at or below 60% of the pond volume. All outfalls have been properly maintained.

Also enclosed are monthly NOAA weather summaries for March and April. The enclosed NOAA weather summary reports show the temperatures and precipitation measurements for the period mentioned. Daily precipitation measurements are recorded at 7:00 a.m. as well as daily maximum and minimum temperatures from the previous 24 hours.

If you have any further questions or comments concerning the enclosed information, feel free to contact me.

Sincerely,
