2024 Moores Mining, LLC annual Report

Mining in 2023 and 2024 has been at a steady pace, a little slower than early 2023, but summer rains of the last 3 months has kept material wetter than normal and has stalled progress somewhat. The top soil stockpile is being moved to the west a little so that the area underneath can be mined so that new ground will not have to be disturbed for mining until that area under the top soil is mined. There still exists a small area to be mined on the east end of the pit under the sand pile and as the sand pile is sold or moved it is being mined and when that is complete the sides will be sloped 3 to 1 and planted. It is hoped that will take place late this fall or early next spring. We have opened up about one acre this year and it is not anticipated to open up more than one more acre in the coming year at the current rate of mining, depending on market conditions that seem to be slowing at the present time.
